

Cultivating healthier workplaces and communities through the power of fresh food.

At Alfrea, we're on a crusade to bring healthier food choices, habits, and skills to as many people as possible. Because we know that fresh, quality food grown and cooked with your own hands not only improves people's health, but their happiness, too.

We focus on serving workplaces and communities that lack convenient access to whole, healthy foods. We deliver farm-fresh fruits and veggies, create on-site gardens, host training and workshops, and run a 24/7 online community sharing marketplace.

All in the name of improving access and knowledge around fresh food.

Because fresh food changes everything.

ALFREA

What we do

Fresh food delivery and so much more.

When you team up with Alfreea, you give your workplace or community multiple opportunities to eat and enjoy fresh, whole food. All without having to travel for it.

Farm-fresh produce delivery.

If your company or community sits within a 2-hour radius of Philadelphia, you can take part in our custom CSA. Unlike other delivery services, we allow individuals to customize their very own produce box. Get fresh fruits and veggies from 120 local farmers delivered to as many locations as you'd like, while paying only a single bulk delivery fee.

On-site gardens.

We help workplaces and communities design, build, and maintain their own gardens for a fun and fruitful addition to their environment. We'll help you find the perfect location, figure out what fruits, veggies, and herbs to grow, and even give you the tools to encourage group involvement.

Fresh food training & workshops.

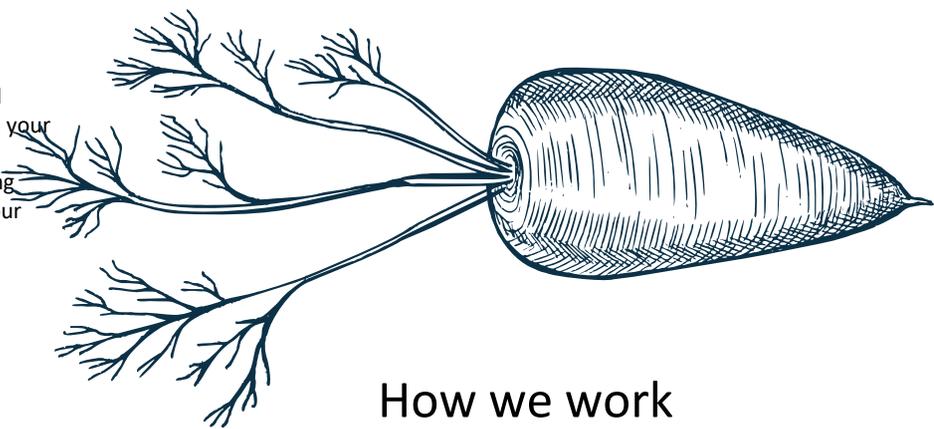

For many, getting hands-on with fresh food is a whole new skill. We run educational events to teach groups the joys of farming and making fresh meals. Choose from our long list of classes or work with us to customize your own program.

Online community marketplace.

Our online marketplace allows your group members to connect with each other and the greater community around them to share land, farming skills, and the food they grow. It's a unique platform that gives people the chance to turn fresh food into a full-time hobby.

Community engagement.

When you introduce a new initiative, spreading the word and gaining momentum is critical. That's why we collaborate with your team to boost member engagement in your new fresh food movement. We bring the tools to help you market the offering and incentivize participation, making your job easier while your members get healthier.

Who we are

We are a small team of people who care about the planet, healthy people and healthy communities.

Founder David Wagstaff is intensely passionate about the power of local food to transform individual and community health. David is a successful entrepreneur who has worked as an advisor to pre-revenue startups and multi-billion-dollar companies.

He is surrounded by a group of talented farmers, chefs, and fellow entrepreneurs who work tirelessly to help spread the Alfreea mission across the tri-state area and beyond.

How we work

Every workplace is different. That's why at Alfreea we remain flexible, working with our new clients to develop a custom package that works for them. All of our services can be bundled and adapted in different ways, so let us know what sounds good to you and your team. We'll put together a package for your workplace or community that fits your group's needs—and appetite.

Choose from our full service offering: Farm-fresh produce delivery, training and workshops, on-site gardens, engagement assistance, and membership to our online community marketplace.
